

Writing and Research Workshops

Winter 2011

The Graduate Writing Center Winter will offer general writing workshops on a variety of topics as well as a few specialized workshops for non-native speakers of English. We will also hold targeted writing workshops for graduate students in the areas of Humanities & Arts, Social Sciences, and Sciences & Engineering. Additionally, we will post information about workshops being offered by the UCLA libraries and the ATS Statistical Consulting Group. Special thanks to our campus programming partners: UCLA Library, Writing Programs, Academic Technology Services Statistical Consulting Group, Counseling and Psychological Services, and the Career Center.

Research Workshops

EndNote

This session offers a basic overview of the purpose, uses, and features of EndNote, a software program that helps researchers manage their references and produce bibliographies for projects large and small.

Two times (same workshop):

Thursday, January 13th, 2:00-3:00pm

Tuesday, January 25th, 3:00-4:00pm

Location: Research Library East Electronic Classroom, room 21536 (map)

Zotero

This session offers a basic overview of the purpose, uses, and features of Zotero, a free FireFox extension that helps researchers manage references. Students are encouraged to bring in their own computers with the latest version of Zotero already installed.

Tuesday, January 18th, 11:00am-12:00pm

Location: Research Library East Electronic Classroom, room 21536 (map)

U.S. Census Information and Statistics

This session offers a basic overview of U.S. Census data and statistics utilizing resources at the Research Library and beyond.

Thursday, January 20th, 1:00-2:00pm

Location: Research Library East Electronic Classroom, room 21536 (map)

Regulate This! The Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), Federal Register, and California Code of Regulations (CCR)

Ever wondered how much arsenic is federally allowable in your drinking water? What is the fine if you run over a desert tortoise or accidentally harm any other endangered species? Do you want to read President Obama's executive order on the disposition of individuals from Guantanamo?

State and Federal Regulatory publications provide the answers to these and many more questions in our daily lives. This session will cover Federal and State Administrative law, the regulatory process, and the key publications needed to do regulatory research. Students will be able to distinguish between legislation and regulations; know when to use the CFR, Federal Register, and CCR; and know how to read and comment on pending regulations.

Thursday, January 27th, 12:30-1:30pm

Location: Research Library East Electronic Classroom, room 21536 (map)

Publication Models for the 21st Century: What Graduate Student Journal Editors Need to Know

Join UCLA librarians Angela Riggio and Bonnie Tijerina (of Lunch & Librarians fame), current graduate student journal editors, and the GSA Director of Publications to discuss different publication models, the shape of things to come in the world of graduate student journals, and interfacing with GSA. This is an excellent opportunity for editors to get expert advice from Angela and Bonnie and to chat with editors using different editorial models and philosophies. The workshop is co-sponsored by GSA Publications and the UCLA Library and hosted by the Graduate Writing Center. Questions should be directed to: Stacey Meeker, Director of GSA Publications (pubs@gsa.asucla.ucla.edu).

Tuesday, February 8th, 4:00-6:00pm

Location: Conference Room 4, Student Activities Center (basement level) (map)

Research Appointments

Graduate students are welcome to contact Library's subject specialists any time for further assistance with research, library resources, and subject databases. Contact information for subject librarians.

Statistical Software Workshops

For walk-in consulting information, Stat books for loan, and the most up-to-date listing of seminars, please see the ATS Stats Group website. Click here for more detailed location information, including directions to the Visualization Portal in the Math Sciences building.

General Writing Workshops

Academic Writing Skills Workshop for ESL Graduate Students

Netta Avineri, Applied Linguistics

In this interactive workshop, ESL graduate students will learn skills and strategies to build their fluency, accuracy, and comprehensibility in English academic writing. In addition, we will discuss useful on-campus, online, and print resources that will help students to work independently to improve their writing. There will also be time for questions and answers about ESL writing issues and concerns.

Friday, January 7th, 12:00-2:00pm

Location: Conference Room 4, Student Activities Center (basement level) (map)

Best Practices for Writing Your Master's Thesis

Netta Avineri, Applied Linguistics

This workshop will begin with a discussion of scope, expectations, and time constraints as related to master's theses. We will then consider writing and organizational strategies for the typical components of master's theses in different disciplines. Lastly, we will discuss approaches to and tips for revision of the project. Students at any stage of writing are encouraged to attend.

Tuesday, January 11th, 5:00-7:00pm

Location: Graduate Student Resource Center, Suite B11 (basement level) (map)

Teaching and Writing: What Teachers & TAs Need to Know

Bruce Beiderwell, Director, UCLA Writing Programs

Marilyn Gray, Coordinator, Graduate Writing Center

This workshop, which is designed for TAs in the humanities and social sciences, will cover how to help students improve their writing and review how to teach writing concepts, such as thesis statements, organization, and summary versus analysis. The workshop will also cover appropriate ways to respond to student writing, including etiquette for commenting on student papers and best practices for one-on-one meetings with students.

Thursday, January 27th, 5:00-7:00pm

Location: Conference Room 4, Student Activities Center (basement level) (map)

Grammar 101: A Refresher Workshop

Netta Avineri, Applied Linguistics

What is the difference between "who" and "whom"? When should I use active or passive voice? How do I combine dependent and independent clauses? Designed for both native and non-native speakers of English, this workshop will review relative pronoun usage, active/passive voice, subject-verb agreement, dangling and misplaced modifiers, and sentence structure. Participants will practice editing for grammatical accuracy in addition to discussing methods and resources for self-correction.

Friday, February 11th, 12:00-2:00pm

Location: Conference Room 4, Student Activities Center (basement level) (map)

Punctuation 101: A Refresher Workshop

Allison Crumly, Comparative Literature

Does a comma always go before "and"? What is the difference between "which" and "that"? This workshop will review commas, semicolons, colons, parallel structure, and restrictive and non-restrictive clauses. Participants will also practice editing for punctuation.

Friday, February 18th, 12:00-1:45pm

Location: Conference Room 4, Student Activities Center (basement level) (map)

Leading through Writing

Netta Avineri, Applied Linguistics

Marilyn Gray, Coordinator, Graduate Writing Center

This interactive seminar will examine how writing relates to leading and influencing others in academic & professional settings. We will discuss both the process of writing for the individual and the role of the writer in the larger academic/professional community. The seminar will also consider how becoming a leader in your field involves entering into a community's conversation through effective communication, etiquette, ethical behavior, and appropriate and collegial critique.

Wednesday, February 23rd, 2:00-3:45pm

Location: Ackerman 2408

Style 101: A Refresher Workshop

Allison Crumly, Comparative Literature

I've been told that my writing is "dense" and "passive" and that my sentences don't "flow." How can I fix these problems? This workshop will help participants improve the clarity and cohesion of their sentences and paragraphs. They will also practice editing for style.

Friday, February 25th, 12:00-1:45pm

Location: Conference Room 4, Student Activities Center (basement level) (map)

Revision Workshop: Strategies for Revising Longer Texts

Marilyn Gray, Graduate Writing Center Coordinator

This hands-on workshop will provide people with revision strategies for longer texts, such as master's theses, dissertation chapters or proposals. Please bring a hard copy of your own work, at least 15-20 double-spaced pages (more is fine). If you would like to do some of the preparation work ahead of time, start working on a backwards outline by tagging each paragraph with a phrase describing its main point.

Thursday, March 3rd, 5:00-7:00pm

Location: Conference Room 4, Student Activities Center (basement level) (map)

Editing Skills Workshop

Marilyn Gray, Graduate Writing Center Coordinator

This hands-on workshop will guide people through strategies for improving writing at the sentence level. We will look at common problems like the overuse of weak verbs, passive voice, and nominalizations as well as offer specific tips to strengthen clarity and flow. Please bring a hard copy of your own work, at least 5-10 double-spaced pages (more is fine).

Friday, March 11th, 12:00-2:00pm

Location: Conference Room 4, Student Activities Center (basement level) (map)

Dissertation and Proposal/Prospectus Workshops

Strategies for Writing the Social Sciences Dissertation Proposal

Netta Avineri, Applied Linguistics

Lisa Millora, Education

This workshop will give an overview of the main components of a dissertation proposal in the social sciences and cover strategies for writing the introduction, literature review, methods, and significance sections. These strategies should be adapted to your department's and advisor's expectations about the structure and content of your proposal. Please bring two copies of your abstract to this workshop.

Tuesday, February 1st, 5:00-7:00pm

Location: Conference Room 4, Student Activities Center (basement level) (map)

Strategies for Writing the Humanities Dissertation Prospectus

Allison Crumly, Comparative Literature

This workshop is geared towards giving incipient prospectus writers the tools to write their prospectus over the course of two months. We will discuss literature review and argument development as well as how to turn the many different pieces of a prospectus into a coherent document. Nota bene: this is meant to be an addition to--not a substitution for--serious discussions with your advisor about what is expected of you in your home department.

Thursday, February 3rd, 5:00-7:00pm
